PUBLIC NOTICE

REQUEST FOR PUBLIC RESPONSE

True up Petition for FY 07-08 and revised Aggregate Revenue Requirement (ARR) and determination of tariff for FY 09-10 filed by BSES Rajdhani Power Ltd. (BRPL), BSES Yamuna Power Ltd. (BYPL) and North Delhi Power Ltd. (NDPL)

The Distribution Companies of the NCT of Delhi viz. BSES Rajdhani Power Ltd. (BRPL), BSES Yamuna Power Ltd. (BYPL) and the North Delhi Power Ltd. (NDPL) have filed their tariff petitions for FY 09-10 before the Delhi Electricity Regulatory Commission (DERC). The DERC has received the respective petitions under the provisions of the Electricity Act, 2003 and the Electricity Regulation Act, 2006 and the Distribution Tariff Regulations dated May 30 2007 issued by the Delhi Electricity Regulatory Commission. The Commission has considered the petitions for tariff and has issued the following public notice to the respective Distribution Companies.

The three Distribution Companies viz. the BRPL, the BYPL and the NDPL have submitted to the DERC the following public notice in the following language of Delhi:

Company	Tariff Period	Free Tariff
		Residential	Commercial
NDPL	01-12-2008	Free Tariff	Free Tariff
	01-12-2008	Free Tariff	Free Tariff
BRPL, BYPL	01-12-2008	Free Tariff	Free Tariff
	01-12-2008	Free Tariff	Free Tariff

The Public Notice has also been posted on the website of the Distribution Companies as well as that of the Commission.

The three Distribution Companies have sought revision of tariff for FY 09-10 for various consumer categories to meet the revenue gap in their respective Annual Revenue Requirement (ARR). The tariff proposals have been summarized in the respective Public Notices of the three Distribution Companies.

In accordance with the provisions of the Delhi Electricity Regulatory Commission (Competition and Consumer Protection) Regulations, 2007 notified by the Commission, the Commission invites comments from consumers and other stakeholders on the above notices. Comments may be sent to the Secretary of the Commission at the above office address by 15.01.2009 either personally or by post, or by email at complaints@derc.in.

Other issues

In addition to the comments on the notices filed by the Distribution Companies, the Commission seeks the views of all stakeholders i.e. consumers and consumers, on the following issues:

1. Power Procurement

The Distribution Companies of Delhi are purchasing power through long term contracts with NTPC, NHPC, POCOL and PFC etc. Additional power has also been taken up from various projects under implementation and the additional power would be available progressively with the commissioning of the new generating units. The demand for power varies significantly between the day time peak hours and the night time non-peak hours. Since the demand and supply of electricity has to be matched in real time, the Distribution Companies have to undertake a continuous balancing exercise to meet any additional shortfall during peak hours and sell in bulk the surplus power which may be available to them during non-peak hours. Short additional power purchases are often required to be made at higher cost to meet emergency situations such as high air in hydro power stations, unscheduled break down of various generating plants, non-availability of critical transmission lines, etc. The Commission has been allowing certain quantum of power purchase at higher than average rate in the MVT Tariff Order, additional power purchase allowed for various distribution companies for FY 2008-09 is as follows:

S.No.	Name of the Company	Quantity (MU)	Average Rate (Rs./kWh)
1	NDPL	239.19	6.41
2	BYPL	189.33	6.40
3	BRPL	331.82	6.40

The difference between the peak power requirements and non-peak power requirements in Delhi is quite substantial. All these members are required to contract for capacity which is able to meet the peak requirements and then sell or bank the surplus power available to them during the non-peak hours without being able to export it to other economic zones. In case the contracted power is not sufficient to meet the peak hour requirements, additional peak power would be purchased at market rates which are significantly higher. It is therefore, imperative for the sake of economical operation to reduce the differential between peak hour requirements and the non-peak hour requirements. Various steps if initiated by consumer companies, the Distribution Companies and other stakeholders in this direction could enable the Distribution Companies to meet power requirements at lower power purchase cost which in turn would reduce the need for increase in electricity tariffs.

2. Water Pumping Requirements:

While the primary responsibility for water pumping in the city is that of the Delhi Jal Board, the increase in number of 3-4 storyed structures, commercial as well as residential premises as well as significant increase in population density has drastically changed the water pumping requirements. The limitations of the existing water supply system in handling the higher water pressure necessitate the use of localized raised stage pumping by individual premises to overcome tariffs. In many cases where underground ground level storage is not available, water tanks need to be installed on various floors of the main supply line to pump water to the raised tanks. This secondary pumping can be derived from the lining of the main water supply by the Delhi Jal Board in case underground pumps are created in residential premises. The pumping requirement is heavy between 5.7 A.M. and continues significantly by the evening peak demand. Creation of underground storage of adequate capacity could enable residential consumers to utilize the free off-peak power to draw electricity from the peak demand period, thereby reducing the need for purchase of expensive peak power by the Distribution Companies which results in higher electricity tariffs. With the installation of additional tanks in the city, it is now possible to identify the consumption during peak and non-peak hours. It would be possible to fix a lower tariff for non-peak hours. Electricity consumers could be induced to install underground water storage and connect to pumping to their premises during off-peak hours with the peak hour pumping by the Delhi Jal Board. This would enable the Distribution Companies to pass on a major part of the savings in higher peak hour purchase cost to their consumers who are unable to draw water during the non-peak hours.

3. Time Differential Tariffs:

There is a possibility for domestic consumers to self regulate the timing of various power uses provided the tariff structure gives them sufficient incentive to do so. For example, electric storage water heaters can be switched on at night so as to avoid the consumption during morning peak hours. Use of washing machines, kitchen appliances and many other domestic uses can be shifted to non-peak periods. Since residential water has ended in case of most residential consumers, have the facility to self-regulate consumption during off-peak hours, it should be possible for the Distribution Utilities to offer differential tariffs to different kinds of users with consequent savings power purchase cost being largely passed on to the electricity consumers. An added advantage would be that consumers who do not yet have water heaters would have to purchase more water during off-peak hours.

4. Two-Part Tariff for Domestic Consumers:

Domestic consumers in the city are charged flat rates for various levels of energy consumption. Thus, a domestic consumer does not need to differentiate between maximum power usage and the average power usage, while the Distribution Company pays a much higher rate for power purchase during peak hours than the average rate paid for the normal power purchase. In case the maximum rate of power usage (Maximum Demand) is much higher than the normal rate of power usage (average kWh requirement), the Distribution Company is required to purchase additional power at the rate of maximum power usage at a higher rate. The existing energy tariff applicable to the domestic consumers does not provide any incentive to them to regulate their usage to avoid incurring a maximum demand which is not commensurate with the average energy requirement. The tariff for domestic consumers could be changed to a two-part tariff with a maximum demand and an energy charge so that domestic consumers also have incentive to avoid concurrent use of a large number of appliances thereby reducing the maximum demand and as a result the average rate paid by them. This would have the effect of putting on a pair of the savings in power purchase cost of the Distribution Companies to the domestic consumers as well.

5. Energy Conservation and Demand Side Management:

A large number of consumers are unaware of the potential of reducing energy consumption by using energy efficient devices. Bureau of Energy Efficiency has a long programme for evaluating the energy efficiency of energy intensive appliances such as air conditioners, water heaters, refrigerators etc. Use of these appliances which carry higher star ratings offers the possibility of reducing energy consumption in these applications. The full potential of demand reduction by use of energy efficient devices has not been realized partly on account of the higher cost of such devices (though it is higher cost itself is not the sole reason for the slow adoption of energy efficient devices). Although the efforts to promote use of energy efficient devices through public awareness programmes could be continued, the Govt. could also consider imposing a ban on sale of such appliances which do not have a minimum prescribed star rating as an additional measure to promote energy conservation. Some such measures which have been adopted in the past used to introduce conduct of awareness camps (DPE) and related activities and programmes for switching off the appliances completely instead of through remote devices etc. The Commission is of the view that a separate fund be created for energy conservation and demand side management which can be used for carrying out various studies relating to these concepts and pilot studies are taken up. These pilot studies will ultimately lead to commercial use of such schemes. The Commission desires to initiate a dialogue on this subject and based on the suggestions received from the stakeholders, certain guidelines on these issues could be prepared.

The Commission shall deliberate on above mentioned issues while deciding on the tariff for various classes of consumers. As done in the past, the Commission would also hold public hearings with the respective stakeholders and the rate will be revised after the public hearings.

The Commission shall consider the petitions and may seek further clarifications from the Petitioners if required. By way of an Order, the Commission shall approve the ARR and Revenue Gap with respect to each of the Petitioners and explore the ways and means for bridging the gap involving various stakeholders if any from the GOVT of Delhi, tariff increase and other regulatory measures. The Orders on the petitions shall be issued after considering the suggestions received from various stakeholders.

In the past, there have been requests that the Commission may extend the public hearings in understanding the petitions and also help them to file their comments in this regard. The Commission has accordingly nominated certain officers to extend necessary help to all such consumers, who may so desire. Discretion may be held with the following officers after seeking prior appointment:

- Mr. K.K. Jain, Joint Director (28880734)
- Mr. Anil, Joint Director (28880733)
- Mr. Anil, Deputy Director (28880732)
